

“Eco-Expo - Serious Fun”

Dear Adam and Eve,

Environmental folks are such serious people. I do what I can, but I want to have fun too.

Signed, Not So Serious

Dear Not So Serious:

Who says you can't be “serious” on the environment and not have good times? Where's it written? Many times the funniest folks are those who examine life most seriously!

The need to preserve breathable air, drinkable water, fertile soil, gentle rains, warming sun and cooling winds is very serious. But, it doesn't mean you can't laugh and have fun!

A good example is the Temple Israel Eco Expo coming up Feb. 8, 11-3:00. All are invited and it's free! Not only will 40+ “green” exhibitors be there, but there'll also be Children's Art from recyclables, hybrid cars and a car named “French Fry”, an opportunity to name someone for “I Saved the Planet” award, drawings for door prizes with lots of winners (it could be you!), movies, etc.! What could be more fun than that?!

And, envision this: you're walking around visiting with friends, watching kids play. At the same time, everyone's learning, discovering. There are new ideas, new gadgets. Wow! Sounds like a great time to me!

Thanks for writing. Remember . . .

RETHINK! REDUCE! REUSE! RECYCLE!

Email questions/comment at DearAdamandEve@timemphis.org or write “Dear Adam and Even”, Eden Committee, c/o Temple Israel, 1376 E. Massey Rd., Memphis, TN 38120.

