

Grizzlies Owner Guest of Synagogues' Men's Clubs

Michael Heisley, majority owner of the Memphis Grizzlies, is coming to dinner, and you're invited to join him.

The men's clubs of Anshei Sphard Beth El Emeth, Baron Hirsch, Beth Sholom, Chabad, Or Chadash, Temple Israel, and Young Israel are co-sponsoring the event and join in welcoming Heisley to Temple Israel on Sunday, October 10, 2010 at 5:30 p.m. Heisley will speak to the group and take questions from the crowd.

"We're excited to be hosting this phenomenal annual event," said Howard Manis, MRJ-Brotherhood President at Temple Israel. "This is the 5th year of the community event that has included such dignitaries as Josh Pastner, Jerry West, John Calipari, and Bruce Pearl, and we're honored that Mr. Heisley accepted our invitation to speak at this year's program. He is a candid and dynamic speaker who certainly knows how to captivate and engage an audience."

Manis emphasized, "It's always great to see kids with their parents, and this wonderful community event is a fantastic opportunity for everyone to get together."

The dinner is catered by Corky's and will be prepared under the supervision of the Vaad at Baron Hirsch.

To make your reservations ($25 per person) by check, write your congregation's name in the memo line and mail to Temple Israel Brotherhood, 1376 E. Massey Road, Memphis, 38120-3299. (You may elect to be announced as an event sponsor by reserving a choice table for ten for $350.)
