“The Pioneer Poet”

Who would have thought that the most masterful and prolific American Hebrew poet, Ephraim Lisitzky, would gain his inspiration from the rich landscape and cultural ambience of the American South? In his poetry and essays, Lisitzky introduced the Hebrew-speaking world to the plight of minorities in America, to a new form of Zionism, and to a new vision of what American Jewry could be.

Come to TIU on March 18th to learn more from Rabbi Bauman about this fascinating personality and the impact that American Hebrew writing has had on the Jewish world.
