

Temple Tuesdays
Have a Little Faith
Presented by Rabbi Katie Bauman
Tuesday, January 11, 2011
7:00-8:00 P.M. (coffee and desserts follow)

Mitch Albom's book, Have a Little Faith, chronicles his relationship with two men of God, one Jewish and one Christian. Albom and his two mentors ask questions that lie at the heart of religion in the modern world: the meaning of suffering, heaven, paths to forgiveness, God's interaction with humanity, and the importance of faith in our everyday lives. We will discuss Albom's book and the many relevant issues it raises as they apply to our own experiences as Jews and human beings.

Rabbi Katie Bauman was ordained at the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion on June 6, 2009 and began with Temple in July, 2009. Rabbi Bauman is a graduate of Washington University, where she majored in Jewish, Islamic, and Near Eastern Studies. She also received a Master of Education Administration with a Specialization in Jewish Education from Xavier University. Rabbi Bauman served pulpits in Natchez, Mississippi, Marion, Ohio, and served as cantorial soloist at Northwestern University Hillel and the Rockdale Temple in Cincinnati. She worked at the Jewish Federation of Greater Washington, D.C., the Anti-Defamation League, the District of Columbia Jewish Community Center, and Washington Hebrew Congregation, and was Temple's Artist and Educator in Residence in 2002-2003. Rabbi Bauman and her husband, Adam Eckstein, have one child.

What a concept! Temple Tuesdays is a brand new learning series offering a myriad of opportunities for intellectual, spiritual, and social connections to Temple and our members. Meet at Temple the second Tuesday of each month, and choose between several stimulating and diverse lectures, discussions, and workshops. After an hour of learning something new, enjoy coffee, desserts, and schmoozing. Bring your friends and make new friends! Temple Tuesdays is where it's happening!
